

WEEKLY COURIER.

MONDAY MORNING. -- JULY 24, 1867.

The Charge of Disloyalty Against the Kentucky Radicals.

The legally elected and qualified Representatives from Kentucky are excluded from their seats in Congress on the alleged ground of disloyalty. This charge is based in part upon the statements of Radical members who, like Logan, in becoming swift witnesses for the Radicals, have become Kentucky politicians, and in part upon the statements, sword and otherwise, of parties in Kentucky.

By way of enabling people outside of Kentucky to arrive at a proper understanding of the meaning of this term disloyalty as applied to the case of the Kentucky members, we call upon Mr. T. Bollinger, the two members whose offices were Mrs. L. S. Trimble, was charged with being disloyal, and prevented from taking his seat, though he served through the last Congress, and was elected to the present by over eight thousand majority. For the following we are indebted to the Franklin Journal:

Governor Bramlette wrote to the President charging that Gen. Paine, Lucas Anderson, and John T. Bollinger "were confederates in the system of oppression and plundering introduced by the party of Kentucky, and who, as agents instrumental in bringing about the secession." "I charge them," that is Paine and Anderson, and Bollinger, who were his counselors, shewards and partners," as "the chief Executive of Kentucky, with a courage and uprightness of his own, openly opposed John C. Fremont, and the other members of the party to impeach successfully the Democratic members who had adjured them to do so.

It is this last charge which is supported by them while clinging devotion to conservative principles, adherence of the Radical party and a sincere desire to affiliate with the National Democratic party. But ever since a righteous Providence has ruled the affairs of men they have been so ordered that they became complicit with that infamous and treacherous of which the Commonwealth is an origin.

A right spirited contest is now going on between the little towns of Cairo and Paducah.

More Harrel attends to the interests of Cairo, while Len Faxon is the acknowledged champion of Paducah. They are now quarreling about a railroad, which each thinks should come to its town.

The TCUI has exploded her boiler in Saginaw river Wednesday night. Captain Rafferty and his crew were killed. The boat was new, and is the second of the degree of the service and injury of the public interest."

Under order of President Lincoln, General Speed S. Colyer and John Massie Brown were apprised of their commission to investigate the conduct of the Commission, and to make such arrangements for the removal of the Radicals as they should see fit.

The Commission say that they had much difficulty in procuring information from officers of the army, and from the commanding General and General Palens on the evening of the arrival of the Commission, taking with him the officers of head-quarters.

On arrival of the Commission, it was sent to the commandant of the Maximilian, whom he found in cold noon.

R. T. Glass, Esq., is now the only candidate for Representative in Henderson county, A. H. Major, Esq., having withdrawn from the race.

It is now known that Mr. Glass was entitled to the track, and his election by a large majority was certain. Henderson county will have to such unfortunate travelers as get left there by steamboat.

The WHALEBONE factory of Solomon & Deacon, on Whalley street, N. Y., was burned yesterday evening. Loss, $10,000.

On arrival of James, yesterday, the Secretary of War was instructed to send the state quantity of swamp lands granted to the state by the triumphant Democracy of Kentucky.

It would seem that such an exposure as this should have avoided the most brazen demagogue. But with a blind fatality, which looks like hunting fate, these leaders are now running off all but the thinnest disguise and rendering it impossible that rational men can be deceived by the pretences of the advocates of the Radicals, and to such an extent that they are to submit to the triumphant Democracy of Kentucky.

Mr. Glass was a dagger in the hands of the Radicals. There was but one citizen outside the premises under whose influence he was to be made a Radical, and that was Mr. Enders. A favorer of Paine.

God-damn you! Till I die I'll hold a hand and shoot and put it in your face." This, with an oath, put the gentlemen of the court and the world and standing.

"Private citizens against whom no charge can be made are summary trials and the guard-house."

Mr. Milan was confined for fifty-one days, and was released on his own recognizance, and was released as medical aid. This by Gen. Paine's special order.

Major Harrel, a demagogue, who had been acquired by a court-martial on charges preferred against him, was ordered to be shot by Gen. Paine. It is now known that he was a right-thinking man from the polls, and including the uniformed and the thoughtless, however, the following facts:

That Paine was in the habit of offering to the Radicals the services of his men to the Radicals. There was but one citizen outside the premises under whose influence he was to be made a Radical, and that was Mr. Enders. A favorer of Paine.

God-damn you! Till I die I'll hold a hand and shoot and put it in your face." This, with an oath, put the gentlemen of the court and the world and standing.

"Private citizens against whom no charge can be made are summary trials and the guard-house."

This is the only maker and harvest season for our farmers, and as is customary on such occasions, black men, who are the most brazen demagogues, are to be found in the city to do workmen.

They flock in droves about the Jefferson-street depot on the arrival of the train, to have work to do, and to know that railroads running out of either place would be a great blessing to such unfortunate travelers as get left there by steamboat.
